

Delaware's Birth to Three Interagency Coordinating Council (ICC)

DELAWARE HEALTH AND SOCIAL SERVICES

Birth to 3 Early Intervention System

Interagency Coordinating Council (ICC) History

Title I of P.L. 99-457 enacted by the US Congress, October 8, 1986, amendments to the Education of the Handicapped Act and subsequent reauthorization to the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act.

- Delaware received a federally funded five-year planning grant, and the first ICC was in place in 1988. The Department of Education (DOE) was designated as the Lead Agency. Infant toddler pilot with Christina School District.
- Department of Health and Social Services (DHSS) became the new Lead Agency in 1991. Delaware's Child Development Watch (CDW) and Birth to Three Early Intervention System was officially implemented statewide on October 1, 1993.
- In June 1998, Child Development Watch was fully integrated into the operations of the Department of Health (DPH)
- In 2004, amendments were made to the Law and it is now P.L. 108-446. This required an addition of three council positions to include individuals to represent the Office of the Coordinator of Education of Homeless Children and Youth, the State child welfare agency responsible for foster care, and the State agency responsible for children's mental health.

ICC Vision and Mission

The mission of this statewide effort is to enhance the development of infants and toddlers with disabilities and developmental delays, and to enhance the capacity and abilities of their families to meet the special needs of these young children.

A comprehensive, coordinated early intervention system that empowers families, makes available resources to enable their children to reach their maximum potential, and provides long term benefits to the children, their families and the Delaware community. Such an effort reflects the national and state goal that all children start school ready to learn.

PRINCIPLES OF THE PROGRAM:

- FAMILY-CENTERED FOCUS

Delaware has a commitment to strengthening and supporting families. As the primary influence in the child's life and the most knowledgeable source of information about the needs of the child and family, family members should be included in each step of service design and delivery. A key function of service providers is to enhance and build the capacity of the family to meet their own needs. Furthermore, the program will be sensitive to the family's right to privacy and to multi-cultural differences.

- INTEGRATION OF SERVICES

The needs of infants and toddlers and their families require the perspectives of various disciplines; thus, services should be planned using a collaborative, multidisciplinary, interagency approach. Services and supports should occur in settings most natural and comfortable for the child and family. The development of a natural system of supports within a family's community should be promoted at all times. Existing services and programs, both public and private, should be supported with appropriate linkages promoted.

- UNIVERSAL APPLICATION

Families throughout Delaware with infants and toddlers with disabilities or developmental delays should receive comprehensive, multidisciplinary assessments of their young children, age's birth through thirty-six months, and have access to all necessary early intervention services.

- COST EFFECTIVENESS

The system should maximize the use of third party payment, and avoid duplication of effort.

- HIGH QUALITY SERVICES

Services should be provided at the highest standards of quality, with providers being required to meet appropriate licensing and credentialing guidelines.
